PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION IS GREATEST IN HISTORY

THOUSANDS OF MARCHERS IN GREAT PARADE

Wonderful Pageant is Evening Patriotic Celebration on Streets

FEATURES MANY AND VARIED

American and Foreign Delegations Carry Numerous Flags and Decorative Pieces—Bands and Drum Corps Number Approximately Twenty-Five

As though by the guiding hand of a kind fate, with conditions ideal, the greatest demonstration in Charleroi's history was held Saturday afternoon and evening, with vast crowds of visitors from all parts of western Pennsylvania and several sections of nearby states here to help. It was difficult to say which of the two programs, afternoon or evening was the more impressive. Both were wonderfully impressive and thrilled the thousands who were here with a grand spirit of patriotism.

Possibly there were 25,000 persons on the streets, townsmen and visitors. In the evening parade there were from 8,000 to 15,000 according to various estimates. Never was there such a pageant in the Monongahela valley.

The parade formed with the first division at Second street and McKean avenue, with long lines extending from that center in all directions. A few minutes after seven o'clock, the hour set, the line moved, led by Chief Marshal J. J. Holt and officers of the day. Capt. J. K. Hein as adjutant general and John Majors as chief of staff. To the front also were three police chiefs on horse back, Chief of Police C. W. Albright in the center, and Chief Smedley of Donora and Chief Wheatley of Monessen to the sides. The route of parade was over McKean and Fallowfield, Second to Tenth street.

Uncle Sam was in the first automobile in the front of the first division. After the soldiers who were conveyed in machines came the marchers in regular order. In the first division were members of councils and schools board, with burgesses of Charleroi, North Charleroi and Speers, the fire departments of Charleroi, North Charleroi and Belle Vernon, the Veteran Guard, Drum corps, Junior Mechanics, Belle Vernon delegations and the Charleroi Red Men. The Lady Maccabees of Charleroi formed a Red Cross unit. The Ellsworth women's Red Cross society attracted much attention.

Monessen cadets commanded by J. E. Newcomer headed the second division and they were followed by Boy scouts from Charleroi, Belle Vernon and Monongahela. Then came the fraternal organizations, the B. P. O. Elks, Protected Home Circle, Alpha Phi Beta, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Loyal Order of Moose, St. Jerome's.

LOCAL ATHLETES WIN COUNTY MEET

County Cup Comes to Charleroi Through Work of Field and Track Men

TOTAL NUMBER OF POINTS 97

While Charleroi was covering itself with glory by the excellence of its patriotic demonstration, the athletes of the Charleroi high school were maintaining the high standard set at home by defeating a field of the finest athletes to be found in high school circles in Washington county, at the annual Washington County Interscholastic High School meet, held at Washington, Saturday afternoon. The local boys scored 97 points, out of a possible 192, winning first place in six of the twelve events, frequently capturing first and second places in the same race.

"Butch" Lowstuter was the brilliant star in the local constellation, winning the 100-yard dash, in 11 seconds flat; the 220-yard dash, in 25 2-5; the 440-yard dash, in 56 2-5; as well as being a member of the winning relay team, which consisted of Lowstuter, the brothers Gibson and Kenneth Hill and Riva. Gibson Hill, captain of the track team, was runner-up in each of the above events, and carried off second honors in each, proving a worthy second to his teammate. Kelly Perry and Kenneth Hill of Charleroi, took third and fifth place respectively in the 100-yard dash. Kelly Perry also finished fourth in the 220-yard dash, while Kenneth Hill captured fifth place in the 440-yard dash. In the 220-yard low hurdle, Perry was an easy winner, with Noah Jones in fourth position. Edmund Riva was the class of the half-mile run, with his teammate, Noah Jones in second place. The time for the half-mile was 2:10 3-5. Riva also finished second in the mile run, which was won by Washington high school's crack sprinter, Wiley Wilford Gaskill, a member of the Charleroi team, finished fifth in this race.

The mile relay was a pretty race, in which each of the local contestants performed his part very creditably, demonstrating that each participant possessed too much speed for his opponent. Cecil Ritchey took second.

Word Of Appreciation

There is no doubt in the minds even of the least appreciative that the patriotic celebration held in our town Saturday was the largest and most successful celebration ever held in the history of Charleroi. The main reason of course was because at this time when our country is at war with a world enemy the word "patriotism" itself stirs the American spirit; when coupled with the word "demonstration" the result was shown Saturday afternoon and evening.

This demonstration could not have been so successful had it not been for the united work of the citizens of our borough, combined with the help of our neighboring towns. So at this time through our paper I wish to take this opportunity of thanking all participants who took part either in the afternoon or evening in the demonstration. Especially do I wish to thank our police force that worked so faithfully aided by eighteen police from the Pittsburgh Steel company of Monessen and police chiefs and men from Donora and Monessen. The town was so well taken care of that there was not an accident nor an arrest for disorder during the day or evening.

FLAG RAISING NOVEL FEATURE AT ELLSWORTH

American and Foreign Peoples Join In Celebration Thursday Evening—Flag Raised While Band Plays "Star Spangled Banner."

By Mrs. Henry Bourns.

The patriotism of the Ellsworth people was strongly in evidence Thursday evening when the beautiful flag which they raised aloft waved gayly on the evening breeze to the accompaniment of martial music and patriotic speech. The initial event of the flag raising was the long parade of nearly all the fraternal orders of Ellsworth, composed of Slovak, Italian, Russian, Polish and Croatian Societies. The Slovaks led in numbers, having in line six societies. The music was furnished by the Ellsworth Slovak Band and the Ellsworth-Cokeburg band. The parade was an impressive sight and reflected credit on the committee whose efforts to get their compatriots to show their Americanism by their attendance, had been tireless. Miss Ethel Calk, settlement worker for the company, and Messrs John Meyers and John Dekter composed this committee under direction of Supt. W. E. Lahm, chairman of all the committees. The flag was presented by the employees of the Ellsworth Collieries company.

The procession brought up at the band stand beside which the flag pole rose to a height of seventy-eight feet, Miss Laura May Lahm of the Ellsworth Junior band opened the ceremonies by giving the bugle calls. As the silvery notes died away the Ellsworth-Cokeburg band began to play softly, "The Star Spangled Banner" and the Stars and Stripes rose slowly. As the flag reached the top the crowd broke into cheers, waved hats and wildly applauded, while the band finished the last measures with fire and spirit. Prof. Bach, chairman of the evening then introduced Rev. J. L. Yatina of the Slovak National league of Pittsburgh who gave a stirring address in English, followed by an intensely patriotic speech in his own language. He was well received. The chairman next introduced Attorney Rufus Marriner of Washington, who delivered a fine address. His comments on the war situation stirred his hearers to intense enthusiasm and they were especially pleased with his optimism on the Russian outcome. The evening came to a close with the rendition of patriotic music by both bands.

GIVE NOTICE OF APPEALS

Fined $100 and costs each for using explosives in fishing, four Californians have given notice they will appeal to court. They were convicted Saturday afternoon of the violation at a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. D. Hornbake at California. Those arrested were C. G. Fisher, Joseph Devers, Jeppie Casteel and William Matthews. The four men said they had been fishing in the river but denied that they were using dynamite or other explosives with which to catch fish. They maintained they were using the explosives for another purpose. According to the California officers still another, Peter Ankrum, is implicated, though he has not yet been arrested.

PATRIOTISM IS EXPRESSED IN FLAG RAISING

Beautiful Ceremony Saturday Begins Program of Patriotic Day

TRIBUTES ARE PAID TO FLAG

Human Flag is Fine Feature—Hon. John K. Tener and W. H. Stevenson of Pittsburgh Tell of Significance Of Occasion—T. P. Sloan Chairman

Wonderfully impressive, attracting thousands, were the flag raising exercises which took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, featuring the patriotic demonstration program, which it began. For the first time in Charleroi's history a human flag was presented, and it was a remarkable sight to behold. Under direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel, 500 school children assembled on the huge stand put up for them on Fifth street, dressed in the proper colors to form the stars and stripes, and there sang and cheered with a spirit that thrilled.

The flag raising program began with several selections by the Charleroi band. Prof. I. T. Daniel directed the singing of America by the children and assemblage, with band accompaniment, and the invocation said by Rev. C. P. Bastian. Then followed the impressive flag raising ceremonies.

Six girls raised the flag by means of red, white and blue ribbons. These girls were Misses Virginia Zellars, Irene Jones, Grace Heupel, Vebna Kibler, W. P. Connors of Pittsburgh, a bugler of the Spanish-American war, sounded the military call and the children sang "The Star Spangled Banner" as the flag was raised. When it had reached the top the children of the human flag gave three cheers and a military salute was fired by the Monessen Cadets under J. E. Newcomer.

Immediately the speaking started. Tom P. Sloan was the chairman. Hon. John K. Tener was the first speaker. His address was followed by a song of children, "All Hail to the Flag of Our Country." Daniel, Mr. Sloan prefaced by a few remarks the introduction of W. H. Stevenson as the next speaker. He gave the age of the flag as 140 years and said that the flag stands today the same flag standing for the same principles, that it did over the battlefield of Saratoga. It was first carried into battle at Brandywine. Though it is the oldest flag of any nation, though nations are older than the United States it never has, said Mr. Sloan been raised in a war of conquest "The old world," he continued, "gave us Lafayette, Pulaski and DeKalb. In return we are sending their sons to the old world to fight for the sort of liberty they helped us obtain."

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. G. Carl and band selections were played.

SHORTAGE OF WHEAT

Discussing the shortage of wheat, Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, state commissioner of health in his weekly health chat, says:

The yield of wheat this year will not possibly meet the demand at home and abroad. If we must rely on our crust with our wheat conservation must be observed.

Wheat bread is made either of whole wheat or the white starch of the wheat. In the economic scheme we must consider these two kinds of bread.

Whole wheat flour will sustain human life with its starch, bran, pollard and phosphate of lime, while we would starve to death on white bread made entirely of the starch, therefore, those on a very restricted diet, such as prisoners, etc., are often dependent upon bread. They should have the flour containing the whole wheat.

White bread, however, when taken with soup made from a good stock that furnishes the nitrogen and earthy salts, is a cheaper food. It is also full of nutritive when combined with fat, meat and a little soup, the base of which is soup stock. Therefore white flour bread with a general diet is cheaper than whole wheat bread.

A further conservation of our present supply may be found by observing more moderation in the quantity of bread and biscuit eaten. Most people eat too much starch.

Those in charge of children seem to be under the impression that wheat bread made of white flour is the "staff of life." This is a mistake.
When children have to depend largely upon white bread they are apt to be under-nourished, shown by their soft and flabby flesh. Under such a starchy diet they are susceptible to tuberculosis.

Too much bread made of white flour (starch) often produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane.

Another economic way to help ourselves and our allies would be to increase the crop of food stuffs. As it is not the season for planting wheat, to make up the deficiency caused by the foreign demand, corn, a valuable food stuff for both man and beast, should be corn.

This would be the best substitute for wheat.

Maize or corn has a larger proportion of starch than wheat, and a little over one half more of nitrogen.

Corn is much richer in fat than is wheat.

Corn can be served in many palatable dishes. These are generally known or can be obtained from books on cooking.

Corn has a large geographical range in the United States and an average crop will do much to furnish food for our people.

Thousands of Belgians have lived almost entirely on corn for the last year.

Barley and oats are also substituted in a measure for wheat and can be planted to yield this season.

During the Revolutionary War maize was an important factor in feeding our soldiers.

"No, your Honor," said the fore-

The judge received it and read:

DOG FULL OF TRICKS

BUT THIS PUP IS AN ELECTRICAL AFFAIR.

Invented by John Hays Hammond and
B. F. Meister—Controlled by Light Rays It Will Do Many Interesting Things.

In the Popular Science Monthly appears an interesting article by B. F.
Meister, describing the famous electric dog which was invented by the author in collaboration with John Hays Hammond, Jr. In speaking of the tricks of his mechanical pet, the writer says:

"The electrical dog, which John Hays Hammond, Jr. and I designed, has no tail to wag and no voice to bark with, but he can follow a person about in a most surprising way.

"Like the sunflower that follows the sun in its path across the heavens, my first apparatus was capable of turning itself only to face the object that stimulated it. But a great difficulty had to be overcome. The stimulant was light, and sometimes the dog saw too much light, so that he behaved occasionally in an astonishingly erratic manner.

"Just how grave a difficulty this disobedience really is, was illustrated by an amusing incident during a demonstration at a Chicago theater.

"The dog was ready to spring into action but when the stage was lighted, instead of obeying the flashlight held in my hands, the dog insisted on paying attention to a very alluring but not thickly clothed young woman painted on the scenery near by. It seems that the reflected light from the painting was sufficiently brilliant to compete with the flashlight and to cause the dog to creep to this fairer attraction with a directness which was almost uncanny.

"To all practical intents and purposes, the electrical dog is a dead dog with a flicker of an external light ray—usually a pocket flashlight, held in the hand. Fastened to the front of a small oblong box on three rollerlike wheels, are two great lenses, the eyes through which the dog receives his intelligence. Behind the lenses are two extremely sensitive coils containing the black, waxy selenium. A peculiarity of selenium is that it is sensitive only to light rays; or, to put the facts a little more technically selenium is a nonconductor of electric currents until it is struck by light, when it becomes a conductor. Located behind the selenium eyes is an arrangement of relays, batteries, magnets and a motor. When a beam of light strikes one of the selenium cells, it causes a relay to be operated which, in turn, causes current to flow through one of the magnets controlling the steering wheel. The driving motor starts and the dog is under way. Shift the light so it strikes the other selenium eye and the dog moves in the other direction.
In other words, in whichever direction the light travels there also will the dog go. By reversing a switch on the outside of the box, the dog can be made to back away from the light. Illuminating both cells equally causes the dog to move in a straight line.

Donkey Brings Grief.

An apparently inoffensive donkey has during the last few days been the source of considerable friction in Vermilion, S. D., and as a last resort the city council held a meeting and took action.

The braying of the donkey kept many people away at night, and after they had lost so much sleep that their tempers were affected sent a petition to the city council asking that the donkey be eliminated.

The city council deliberated over the matter for some time, and then took a vote, which proved that the council was evenly divided on the question as to whether the donkey was a nuisance or not.

Mayor Lyons, to break the deadlock, cast the deciding ballot which declared the donkey a public nuisance, and the council now has demanded of the owner, C. H. Grange, that the offending donkey be exiled from Vermilion and not permitted to step foot within the city limits.

STEEL PRODUCTS SEASON OPENS; J. K. TENER PITCHES FIRST BALL

Band Parade Precedes Game—Monongahela Independents Victorious

HEAVY HITTING RESPONSIBLE

Featured by a band parade and ceremonies at the grounds in which President John K. Tener of the National Baseball league had a particular part, the opening game of the Charlevoi baseball season was played Saturday by the Pittsburgh Steel Products club and the Monongahela Independents. The Monongahela team won, to get at the short end of a long story, but it was not without considerable difficulty that they an-nexed the affair. The score was 10 to 7.

The parade started at 1 o'clock in order that the game might get under way early. Led by the Charlevoi band officials of the athletic association and of the company paraded in automobiles over the main streets to the baseball ground.

After some practice formalities were in order, President Tener was called upon to pitch the first ball. He made a short speech and ended by presenting as a personal gift to Manager C. W. Regester of the Steel Products club a dozen baseballs. The same gift was presented to Arch Osborne, manager of the Pittsburgh Steel club. The first ball was pitched and the game was under way.

Dischner was in the box for the Steel Products and began strong. In the second and third Monongahela began to score and tallied these two innings five runs. Some discussion ensued over a decision at first and Monongahela was granted permission to have her way. That helped Monongahela. Rapp was sent in midway in the game to stop affairs and in the eighth Lafferty was sent to the mound. But the Monongahelians had brought all their hitting clothes. Four hits in the sixth meant two runs and the same number of bingles in the seventh netted three.

The Steel Products scored like winners in the first, second and third innings. In the first a base on balls and a single, with good team playing, brought a run. A base on balls and a sacrifice fly brought another in the second and in the third the run was scored by a three base hit and a sacrifice. In the sixth Stankus was touched for two hits, a double and a trip and Joe Guder scored. Things looked rosy in the eighth round. An error let Guder on base. He stole second and went third on a fly. Hart drew a walk. Wilson scored the outfit with a homer and there were the three runs all chalked up. Monongahela stopped further scoring and also prevented tallying in the ninth. Score:

Conceived and Planned by A Democratic Russia

Perhaps no single figure has been more conspicuously in the public eye in Russia during the recent distur-

George E. Lvoff, who is shown in the accompanying picture—just arrived in was a leader in the movement which overthrew imperialism in Russia and is now the active head of the demo-

Lvoff in a notable speech recently,

Two Former Presidents of U. S. Sit at Banquet Table
With Distinguished Members of Foreign Missions

Seldom in the annals of the nation have two former Presidents sat at the same banquet table among so distinguished a group of visiting foreigners as are shown in the photograph presented here. It so happens, however, that Col. Roosevelt, who occupied the chair next to Marshal Joffre, was unexpectedly and temporarily absent when the flash went off. The group shows from left to right the hero of the Marne, Governor Whitman of New York, the Rt. Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, head of the British Commission; Mayor John Purroy Mitchel of New York; M. René Viviani, head of the French Commission; M. J. J. Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States; former President William H. Taft, and President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University. The event was the memorable banquet to the two commissions. Marshal Joffre is intently studying the menu during the absence of Col. Roosevelt.

PATRIOTISM IS EXPRESSED

Speech of Mr. Tener.
Following are extracts from the speech of former Governor John K. Tener:

Our town has been filled, as it were, overflowing in times past, when, in the celebration of an event, we have made merry and dressed ourselves in holiday attire on other occasions, our streets have been packed and our buildings decorated when in the heat of a political campaign we have thus demonstrated our partisanship, but today we gather not in the festive spirit in gala attire or with political factionalism, but rather do we come as American citizens thinking only of our duty to Country and how each of us may serve and serve our best.

Long ago have we put aside all thought of partisanship and today a hundred million Americans stand as one man, believing and thinking only of one Country, and one flag.

It is well you should know, that flag which you rededicate today was designed and fashioned by a Pennsylvania woman. I do not believe it is too much to say that when this war is over that flag so designed and fashioned will be emblematic not only of our liberty but symbolic as well of a world's democracy and a guarantee to the future generations that never so long as she floats will autocracy reign or war lords be endured.

The war in which we are now engaged was not called, in my opinion because of the sinking of the Lusitania and the consequent murder of women and children, although it might well have been, nor was it declared because of the loss of a few sailors who went down upon the high seas while in service of an American chartered ship, although it well might have been.

War was not declared by the United States until after a full consideration of all that had taken place between the belligerent nations abroad as it might affect this country at the present time and her future welfare. The violation of international law when Belgium was invaded was not considered sufficient to warrant our alliance against Germany, neither was the sinking of the Lusitania, nor again the loss of our seamen, but when a nation governed and controlled by ambitious, blood-seeking war lords sought to define on what parts of the high seas our ships might sail and said to the United States what you must do and what you must not do, then and only then realizing that if any monarchy could put into effect such monstrous command, it would not be long until that nation would completely control the seas and would make of this and any other republic its tool.

It was with this prospect facing us that America was forced as she did to declare war, and coupled with this declaration of war on her own account, she stands as well for the democratization of all the nations of the world and just as Belgium made her sacrifice for liberty, as France saved democracy for the world, so, in my opinion, is America destined to win it to preserve and to protect us forevermore.

Mr. Stevenson's Speech

Following are extracts from the speech of W. H. Stevenson former president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and now president of the Pennsylvania Canal Board:

This is a time to be thrilled. A flame is at work devotion to the flag that expresses a glowing history. For 140 years it has been the standard of a free people, a people made free by sacrifice.

The stars and stripes stand for liberty, justice and independence, with the colors exemplifying these virtues. We should keep our flags waving.

America is the mecca of the immigrant across the sea. America's sunshine is for them an attractive sunshine and they ask for a ship to this beautiful land.

Let us not be slackers in these days of patriotic need. We all can help. We can buy a liberty bond, can supply food, can join the Red Cross. Rally around the flag. Every star added to the flag has congregation and the Charleroi Turn Verein. Marching in the Turn Verein section were a large party of children of the gymnastic classes, attired in costume and carrying wands.

THOUSANDS OF MARCHERS

The third division was the foreign division and one of the most conspicuous in the entire parade. In this division were the United Italian societies, French and Belgian organizations, the Sons of Italy, German Benevolent Union, Slovak Catholic society, Russian societies and various foreign societies and bands. Showing the interest they took in the proceedings these marchers carried numerous patriotic signs, demonstrating allegiance to President Wilson and the Stars and Stripes. Numerous flags were carried, and one fine scene was a massed formation of color bearers in the Russian party, carrying five large silk American flags. The French and Belgian organizations were headed by two girls dressed in national colors.

The fourth division was an industrial and church division. In it were delegations from the Pittsburgh Plate Glass works, the Imperial Glass works, the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church and the Macbeth-Evans Glass plant, with numerous other industrial organizations. In the Macbeth-Evans delegation was exemplified the spirit of 1776 by a fife and two drummers.

Seventeen bands and eight drum corps were in line. These included the Ellsworth-Cokeburg band, the Veteran Guard Drum Corps, a veteran drum corps of Belle Vernon, the Denora Stell Works band, Monongahela Military band, the Charleroi band, the Denora Moose band, the Bentleyville band and drum corps, Monessen Italian band, Belle Vernon band, California Italian band, Russian band of Charleroi, New Eagle band, California band, Louhi band of Monessen, Charleroi Slovak band, and various other musical organizations. All told there were more than 500 musicians.

All told there were four Uncle Sams in the parade, and various Columbias. A pretty scene was realized by various organizations with red white and blue umbrellas and other patriotic decorative pieces. The organizations carrying umbrellas were the B. P. O. Elks and the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church. Former Governor John K. Tener marched with the Elks.

Fine effect was obtained during the time of the parade at Fifth street and McKean avenue where for the second time during the day children formed a human flag at the huge stand, under direction of Prof. I. T. Daniel. As the parade passed the children cheered themselves hoarse and sang patriotic songs.

The entire line of parade was illuminated with continuous strings of red, white and blue lights. On the speakers stand was a waving flag and another was located above Fallowfield avenue on Fifth street. Various buildings in the heart of the business district were illuminated similarly.

To a delegation of colored men went the honor of carrying the largest flag in the parade. It was so large that it spread almost entirely across the street. Practically every marcher carried a small flag or national banner of some sort.

"GOOD FELLOWS" OF HISTORY

They Are of Both Sexes and Have Saved World From Being an Utter Failure, Says Writer.

Good fellows are not limited to one sex. Not by any means. This would be a sorry world if they were. In fact, they may be found anywhere, and everywhere, for wherever you hear a cheerful, heartsome song there you will find a good fellow, as surely as there is a partridge where "bob white" is. The good fellows have saved the world from proving an utter failure, and whatever there is that is worth having is due to their good offices, and whatsoever of greatness this old world may achieve in ages to come it will owe to the good fellows who belong to the ages.

Your really good fellow is not a goody-goody chap, too pretty to mingle with the throng, and to fine for everyday use. Not he. Being neither sugar nor salt, he will stand a deal of rain and storm, and with courage strong he is ever ready for any fray in which the right is assailed. To him death is a secondary matter when to live would be to play the coward.

"Be of good comfort, Master Ridley," Latimer cried as the flames crackled around him. "Play the man! We shall this day light such a candle, by God's grace, in England as I trust shall never be put out."—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

given additional prosperity to the nation. The future is in your hands. Democracy must be preserved. May the sly boys take this flag across the ocean and plant it in the old world and may it wave until liberty has been attained by the shackled peoples of the globe.

Pershing Will Lead U. S. Army in France

Maj. Gen. John J. Pershing, hero of a hundred battles, veteran of the Spanish-American war, and leader of the expeditionary force into Mexico, is the man who will lead the American army of invasion in France. His selection by President Wilson sets at rest all speculation. Gen. Pershing is fifty-four years old. He graduated from West Point in 1886 with the rank of Senior Cadet Captain, and was assigned to Gen. Miles' cavalry division, where he saw his first service in the Indian wars. He was promoted for bravery at El Caney in the Cuban campaign, and in 1899 sent to the Philippines. President Roosevelt promoted him to the rank of Brigadier General in 1906 over 800 other officers. Seven years later, after another campaign in the Philippines, he became commandant of the Eighth Brigade at Presidio, Cal., where he remained until he was sent into Mexico after Villa in December, 1915, he was promoted to the rank of Major General.

in the discus and 12-pound shot, with Boulanger fourth in the discus, and Raymond Carson third in the 12-pound shot and the pole vault. Carson forged to the front in the running broad jump and the running high jump, winning first place in each with comparative ease. Richard Herman, and Paul Manon took third and fifth places, respectively, in the running broad jump, with Carl Schmeiler taking fourth honors in the running high jump.

By winning Saturday's meet in such a decisive manner, Charleroi high school became permanent owner of the Observer-Reporter trophy, offered in the first division. This cup has been won three consecutive times by local high school teams, and henceforth it will find a resting place in the trophy case in the institution of learning on the hill.

Secret Spy Police System in Russia is Wiped Out by New Government

With the reorganization of the government in Russia one of the first steps toward setting up a new order of things was to establish a police system. The old secret spy police system was wiped out in Petrograd following the riots which marked the change of governments. Many of the officers were killed and others caught and imprisoned. The new system is a radical departure. Travelers, autoists, and pedestrians are treated with the utmost courtesy, but are required to show their credentials when coming or going from their homes.

GARDEN COLUMN

By National Emergency Food Garden Commission

Plant Protectors

Any gardener of a small tract can show ingenuity in devising means for protecting his growing plants against heat, cold and insects, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission of Washington, which is cooperating with this paper in encouraging garden cultivation.

A gardener living near Washington uses for lighting his house. He utilizes the empty carbide cans for the benefit of his young cucumber, melon, and other plants which need protection in the spring. With a can opener he cuts out the bottom of the can, and then cuts the can in two with a diagonal cut in the middle. This makes a low protector the top of which slopes toward the sun and, from the top, he hangs a net to turn it. By covering the top with cheesecloth he keeps off insects, while a glass cover will admit sunlight and exclude cold on an unseasonable day in spring. Small bottomless, topless boxes built at home serve the same purpose.

When lettuce and other cool weather plants are attempted in the summer they must often be shaded from the wilting sunlight. Cheesecloth will do this sufficiently, and the home gardener can use his own ingenuity in manufacturing low frames for the cloth.

Little cuffs of stiff paper wrapped about the stem of a tomato or cabbage plant when it is transplanted will protect them from cutworms. In some localities where the insects are so common by building low board fences around them and stretching netting or cheesecloth for a roof.

Fashion's Changes

One can say as a certainty that in the twentieth century no one will be able to boast that he has created anything absolutely new in fashions. The crinolines of the Empress Eugenie were a reminiscence of the panniers of Marie Antoinette, and long before her time, in the orient, women had conceived the idea of enlarging their skirts by means of hoops. A few years ago women of fashion affected high waists and sheath dresses, but before them Mme. Recamier had done the same thing, and the dresses of Mme. Recamier were suggested by the Greeks and the Romans. In short, like everything else, fashion is a part of the same everlasting come and go. We do not advance as we are so prone to imagine; we repeat our steps.—Roger Bouter de Monvel in Century.

Ruined by Jestings

The Antiochenes themselves brought about the ruin of the beautiful city of Antioch, the ancient capital of the Greek kings of Syria. These people were famous for their biting and scurrilous wit as well as their ingenuity in devising nicknames. When the Persians under Chosroes invaded Syria in 538 the Antiochenes could not refrain from jesting at them. Ample revenge for this was taken by the Persians who totally destroyed the city.

FOOD VALUE OF CORN.

A Series of Comparisons That is a Study in Economy.

I have recently made an exhaustive investigation of the comparative food value of the products of white corn and the results show these products to be so much more economical than many of the foods commonly used that I believe it would interest your readers to see the comparison.

The food value of one pound of cornmeal, white, costing 3 cents, is equal to the food value of any of the following commonly used foods:

One pound of cornmeal, white, costing 3 cents, is equal to the food value of any of the following commonly used foods:

National prosperity has made us proud of our resources and basted of our abundance, particularly in the matter of food, for which we have been paying more than is commensurate with food values, and I believe it behooves Americans today to consider the real nutritive value of the food which they purchase and to know the merits of white corn products, which I believe to be the cheapest nourishing food available in the market today.

The South knows and appreciates the value of white corn for table use. Why not the North, East and West?—A. W. Smith in New York Post.

LISPING AND STUTTERING.

Children Should Be Taught How to Use Their Speech Organs.

Lisping may be caused by a lack of practice in the organs of speech. Stutterers are recruited largely from the ranks of the lisps. Children imitate the slovenly and disagreeable language of their elders.

Among the causes of lisping, in addition to the wrong use of speech organs, are abnormal teeth, lips, tongue, jaw or palate. Some cases are apparently due to carelessness or haste in reproducing speech sounds.

Lisping is not to be considered abnormal unless it noticeably persists beyond the age of five or six years. Usually the tendency to slur over words disappears rapidly in the upper grades of school. Fully one-fourth of the children entering school suffer from this speech defect.

Many educators argue that the first months of school should be given over to exercises in oral language intended to form correct habits of speech. They claim that the anxious haste of the primary teacher to teach children to read is unjustified and maintain that if one-half of the time used for phonic drills were devoted to voice cultivation many cases of stuttering would be prevented.—Pittsburgh Press.

Golden Pots and Pans.

Should the shah of Persia desire to pledge his kitchen requisites he might realize $300,000. Every saucepan of this monarch is gilded inside, and the dishes which appear on the table are of solid gold, as well as the spoons, knives and forks. The handles of the latter, moreover, are ornamented with costly stones, and some are worth as much as $199 each.

In preparing lunch for the shah none but silver spoons can be used, and any covering used for keeping cold meats must also be of silver.

His majesty has a staff of over thirty chefs, and altogether those employed in his kitchen number nearly 120. Their wages amount to $500 a week.—London Globe.

Protects the Deer.

A kindly act on the part of a railway was the order of the Southern Pacific to its engineers that when a deer is seen on the track at night the headlight shall be extinguished for a moment. More than a dozen deer were killed by trains in California in January. It has been discovered that when the headlight is extinguished, if only for a second, the animals are able to jump to safety. Otherwise the glare of the headlight dazes them so that they are run down before they can escape.—Outlook.

Two Cousins: Two Thrones.

"Nicholas Romanoff" of Russia and King George of England are cousins, look much alike and are probably not greatly different in intellectual ability. One is off the throne and the other is on because one throne was an anomalous survival of medievalism, while the other is an adaptation to modern democratic progress.—Springfield Republican.

High Tips.

"No, I did not," was the reply, "but I'd like to."
"Why?"
"Because I hear the ostrich tips come high."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Too Reverential.

"Why don't you ever laugh at my jokes?"
"Because I was brought up to respect old age and feebleness."—Baltimore American.
